I am currently a student at Communication and Multimedia Design at Avans University Breda, The Netherlands. Of which I will receive my Bachelors in January of 2010.

Communication and Multimedia Design is an education which focuses on multimedia development and design, and managing processes that concern multimedia design. The program at our school is plentiful for every multimedia developing company on the current market, we are taught a big variety of classes. From very practical courses, like Adobe Flash to communication and management theory. Before Communication and Multimedia Design I oriented myself in every possible creative education. ABCreatief was a school which allowed me to experiment with what I really wanted in the creative field. Therefore, I also have a lot of experience with other forms of design, like furniture and textiles.
